OR THE Edge

This year the staff of the Spencerian chose "On

The Edge" as the yearbook theme. One way that the theme describes our school is its location.

Reo, Indiana is on the edge of the state. What is best described by this theme however, is the atmosphere. As many people have probably already figured out, life at South Spencer isn't always what one would call ordinary. In fact, it's rather unique, which makes "On the Edge" the perfect choice.

Students are often living on the edge. When involved in academics, they are usually using computers, leaving them with more knowledge of the cutting edge of technology.

Those involved in organizations are learning daily about leadership abilities and working with peers. Some day they will benefit from the things they learned, leaving them on the edge of success.

Other students are involved in sports. Being in athletics not only gives a person strength, but also the will to succeed. Those athletes who do succeed, are the ones who know that whether you win or loose, competition makes a player strong. They are the ones with a competitve edge.

Although not every student takes risks, nearly pushing them over the edge, there is still at least one who tries to break the mold and be different. Maybe it's because they just like to stand out. Maybe they want attention, or maybe they've got something the others don't. Maybe, they've got the edge.

People

Although students' lives often revolve around the pressures of daily classes and homework, most of the student body found more than a few ways to take time out for themselves.

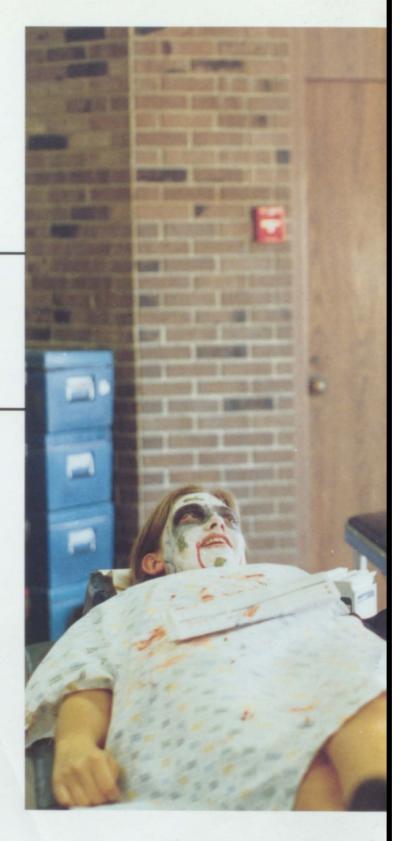

Many students spent their free time with the people they care about the most, their friends. Most people would agree that if it weren't for their friends, they would never get through the day.

Other students got involved in afterschool activities. With all of the sports teams and organizations, it seems that there was always some kind of practice in the evening.

Some students even found enough time in their schedules to work. Afterschool jobs not only gave students the chance to earn money, but also the chance to learn about responsibility.

All in all, students had very busy lives. But, no matter what they were doing, they were always Living On The day of classes and hard work, one thing enters the minds of everyone. SCHOOL'S OUT! To most students however, that hardly means that the day is done.

While some students are making their way home to begin studying, or getting ready for an after-school practice, there is another group of students who are on their way to work.

Having a job means also having to be responsible. Besides just finishing the tasks given at work, students must also keep up with their homework. Some are even forced to give up watching T.V. every night and going out every weekend.

Jobs can be a great deal of trouble, but they can also be a great deal of fun. For some, such as Troy Forston, they can even be embarrassing. He recalls that his most embarrassing moment on the job was, "The time I slipped and fell on my face while waiting tables at Ponderosa."

Although having an after-school job has its faults, it can also have its good points. Having a job can teach a person how to be responsible, People giving them an edge over the rest. Living On The

To ahead and admit it, we all have something we are hiding from the outside world. Whether it's a clothing article or a daily habit, or even a favorite food, you're hiding something. Why? Because, we are all still faced with the fear that has been haunting us from the very first day of kindergarten. "What if somebody thinks I'm weird?"

What if people do think something you do is weird? How does anyone actually know what's weird and what's not.

Vanessa Virgin defines weird as "anything out of the ordinary or unusual."
That definition describes just about everyone at one time or another. Others, such as Patrick Mulligan describe weird as somthing in particular like, "running around on your head".

So, until we find an answer to the question "what is weird"?, stop hiding. Be weird. Be proud, and most important, be yourself.

Basketball Homecoming 1996! How could we ever forget that Simon Lundberg wore a flourescent green and white hat with ear flapps and a Swedish flag on hat day? Or, how about when Kam Cron wore a girl's nightgown to school on pajama day? These are just a few of the things that will stick out in our minds when we think about homecoming week.

Another thing that will stand to be remembered is the new rule which stated if students had attended in or out of school detention, they would be ineligible to run for the court. This rule caused quite a response among the student body.

Nevertheless, homecoming week was still a success. At the crowning, Troy Forston and Stephanie Strahl were crowned the king and queen. Josh Farmer and Julie Butcher were crowned Prince and Princess.

Homecoming week consisted of five designated dress up days. The cheerleaders voted on the most creative outfit for each day.

Monday's winners for Backward/Inside out Day were Amanda Turner and Brian Poole. Tuesday's winners for Favorite Team/Hat Day were Rebah Wilson and Simon Lundberg.

Wednesday's winners for Sixties and Seventies Day were Nicholle Edwards and Jacob Newkirk. Thursday's winners for Dress Down/Pajama Day were Valerie Lashley and Kam Cron.

Friday's winners for Rebel Spirit Day were Patrick Mullican, Miranda Bateman and honorable mention to Brian Poole.

For most girls, prom is a night that has to be perfect in every way. The perfect date, the perfect restaurant, the perfect hairstyle, the perfect dress... The list goes on and on, and most of the time, so does the bill. After purchasing all of the essentials for perfection (according to one's own taste) the bill can range anywhere from $100 to

For the guys, however, prom preparations can be pretty simple. Once they find a date, rent a tux, and make dinner reservations, they're set.

Since our prom is held in our own gym, transforming it into a ballroom requires help from the entire class. Mr. Raymond Dawson, and the prom committee vote on the theme of the prom, and other details. This year's theme was "I'll Stand By You". The week before prom the class begins decorating the gym. Miraculously, at the last minute everything comes together to create the perfect atmosphere for the seniors' last high school dance.

After months of planning STUDENTS SPRING TO THE Country

For the past twelve years, school has been one of the most important things in life for the class of 96'. We spend approximately 1,260 hours at school in one year, so by the time graduation comes, seniors will have spent around 15,120 hours being educated. Obviously, everyone would be ready for a break.

As Spring Break tradition goes, many students spend their vacation in Florida. This year most of the vacationers chose Daytona Beach, which is on the eastern English of Florida. After arriving, the students had six days of fun in the sun and relaxation.

These trips do not come together easily; They require months of planning and arguing, but the end result is worth it. Also, planning a week trip gives students a practical lesson in life. Reservations have to be made, travel arrangements determined, swimsuits purchased, and diets adhered to.

The less fortunate students, however, who spent their spring break at home, had fun in the snow. For the first time in over five years they celebrated the first day of spring sledding.

adolescence to adulthood SENIORS STEP OVER THE Graduation is only one of the events in a young person's life that is constantly looked forward to, and yet always seems to come too soon. When one becomes a senior, the past three years seem to have just flown by. Funny, how just months before, the school days seemed as if they would never end.

For most, graduation is a major stepping stone in their life, creating a bridge from adolescence to adulthood. Although, not everyone makes a great change in becoming more mature and responsible, they soon realize that it's time to grow up.

Having to grow up is one thing that is feared by some students. Many dread the thought of having to say goodbye to friends, family, teachers, and especially free room and board at home.

The upside of leaving however, is a new freedom that is found soon after one leaves home. There is no longer someone checking up on you to see if your homework is done, or if your room is clean, and best of all, NO CURFEWS!

For everyone, graduation has its ups and downs.

Whether it is a time that is looked forward to, or a time that is dreaded, graduation is just one more step that seniors must take over the EARL.

Getting Serious

Organizations

For most students, the day doesn't end at three o'clock, because extra-curricular activities play a major role in many of our lives.

Considering the small size of our community and school, compared to the large number of organizations, the backing they receive is unbelievable. Support of these activities shows a strong sign of involvement.

Although many of the meetings are held during the school day, most of the actual work takes place after the school day ends.

Students here seem to enjoy these activities so much that they choose to join many. Calendars of some students are packed with extra-curricular activities, which helps keep students on the Edge comes to the real

Getting involved in the buisness world, learning new skills, and working with people are SOME of the many goals and duties that the PEOPLE on the yearbook staff, newspaper staff, and in Business Professionals of America HAVE in common. The members of the yearbook and newspaper staffs, are introduced into the world of journalism, where they become familiar with words like copy blocks, picas, and most important, deadlines. The students involved in B.P.A. learn many skills that are needed in order to become a member of any successful business team. Later in the year, they compete in a business competition. Each of these groups is alike in that they all allow students to discover WHAT the real world has to offer them. The students on these staffs learn how to work well on computers and more importantly, how to interact with others in a professional manner. T is not all work however; students are often a part of these activities because it's fun. Each group often TAKES their duties above and beyond the expected, even if it means spending extra time working after school.

They are not necessarily any brighter or talented than anyone else, but they put forth the effort that makes them the leaders of our school. Although many of the things that these comes to Showstime.

There are many performers at South Spencer High School. While SOME students shine in academics or sports, others excel on the actual performing stage; members of Rebel Singers, Choir, and drama productions show their leadership on the stage. It seems that only certain PEOPLE have what it takes to perform in front of others. Members of Rebel Singers, and Choir perform three concerts a year.

In the early part of the year, students present a fall play. They performed The Long Red Herring, a murder mystery involving six innocent college students. While the students attempted to solve a staged murder, they ALWAYS managed to get themselves in trouble through practical jokes. In the end, the students' professor committed an actual murder, making it SEEVM as though the students were at fault.

Through their experiences, these six students were able 79 learn more about friendships and trust.

Members of Rebel Singers and Choir must not only BE able to perform 171 staged productions, but also at group contests. This year when the Rebel Singers attended the district contest at U.of E., Jenny Sullivan stole the show, when she tripped and fell down a flight of stairs. Due to that distraction, they did not perform their best, and received a division II rating. However later in the year, the Rebel Singers lived up to their potential at organizational contest, and received a division I rating in both performance and sight reading. No matter where members of Rebel Singers and Choir appear, they always seem to

to meet a Challenge

The chess team, academic teams, spell bowl team, Bible Club, AND Snowball leaders are not often thought of as groups that have much in common with each other. However, each group in its own way has a challenge that it must strive to meet.

At the beginning of the year the academic team is broken up into different catagories. Throughout the year each member takes time to study the designated subject. This year the academic team qualified to go to compete at state finals, where the Science and Interdisciplinary teams both finished in the top three. The spell bowl team as well, spent part of the year getting prepared for competitions.

The Chess Club was also active this year. Although the members \mathcal{NEVER} actually competed against other schools, they did hold intramural games within the club to find out who the "Chess Master" was.

GIVING advice to lending a helping hand and taking time to listen, is what the Bible Club and Snowball are all about. A person who is motivated takes these kinds of challenges, and under no circumstances, gives UP.

comes to switching Roles...

William Shakespeare once noted, "All the world is a stage". To those ACTORS and actresses involved in the Thespian Society and musical, it often felt like the stage was their one and only world. In the production of Cinderella, students CREATEd the musical's humorous and magical feeling with a cast consisting of an imaginative young girl, her two stepsisters, an evil stepmother, a fairy godmother, A royal family, a wonderful chorus, and of course, a great stage crew. The cast and crew presented the musical to the public four times. Also, the cast tried something new by performing a special show for the Luce Elementary students. The elementary students were pulled into Cinderella's WORLZ during the cast's last performance. An enormous amount of hard work and dedication went into each one OF the performances. Even though many crazy, unexpected things happened, the actors and stage crew knew that the show must go on.

The Thespian Society is an elite group of actors and actresses. Individual's selections are based upon THEIR experience in previous drama productions. Each member in this group has their OWN special style of acting, but when brought into one group, they play off one another's talent.

Library workers, Office workers, Foreign Language Club, Ecology Club, and Future Teacher of America do many things including GOING to other schools to teach younger students, filing books and recycling paper, and even singing Christmas carols.

Library and office workers spend one class period out of their busy day helping out. The library workers file books and check out books. THE office would be a hectic place without the constant help of its student workers. Taking messages for phone calls and helping the secretaries with EXTRA paper work are just some of the jobs they perform on a daily basis.

The Future Teachers of America consists of high school students who plan on becoming teachers. Some of them put extra WIJLEs on their car every day traveling to the elementary and middle schools to student teach.

To be in the Foreign Language Club a student must complete one year of a foreign language. Members plan many events together, such as the annual singing of foreign Christmas carols throughout Rockport, and their yearly picnic.

None of the students involved in these activities are required to do all that they accomplish; however, their work does not go unnoticed. Without them, our school would not be the same.

Memorizing music, warming-up and tuning voices and instruments, and putting on a happy face during the worst performance of your life... these are

JUST a few of the many things that students involved in stage band, All-State Choirs, Quad State, and solo and ensemble competitions must go through. Through performing in front of many audiences of diverse size, the students involved in these musical groups got a LOOK AT the more professional side of music. The singers in All-State Honors Choir had the privilege of working with famous conductors from around the U.S.. Those involved in the Quad State music convention, traveled SOUTH, to Murray State, at which they sang with students throughout, Indiana, Kentucky, Illinois, and Ohio.

The stage band, consisted of approximately twenty-two students who perform mostly jazz. Eleven students were chosen to attend the state competition in either vocal or instumental solo and ensemble. At the competition, held in Indianapolis, these eleven students competed against their own scores along with many other students from other schools. Each student's goal was to beat his highest score in the past. It's clear to see, that many South

SPENCER students are musically talented.

If you have ever been to a South Spencer ballgame, then you know what school spirit is. It's great to see so many people who support the Rebels. Everyone stands up and cheers for their favorite team, while the pep band plays our school song. Being at the games on the weekends, for many fans, is the best place to be.

During the ballgames the pep club stands in the cheer block and follows the lead of the cheerleaders in cheering on the team. The pep club has certain theme nights when everyone dresses up, such as; spirit night, hat night, and farmer night. During the sectional, many students dress in blue and wave flags. Since this year was our fourth sectional win in $\mathcal A$ row, everytime one of the cheerleaders held up a four everyone started bouncing up and down and making noise.

The pep band plays songs before every ballgame to get everyone pepped up. They take time out of their busy schedule to practice each day during basketball season to better their performance at the games.

The Rebel Jazz also does its PART in supporting the Rebels. They entertain the crowd with dances during the halftimes OF the basketball games to show their support for the Rebels.

Each student's pride goes much further than just to the ballgames; it is carried throughout THE community by showing their support of the REBEL FAVILY.

Academics

Some students would say that going to a relatively small school has been to their benefit when it comes to education. Most of the time being from a small school means having smaller classes and therefore, having a more personalized education.

Some classes have as many as thirty students, but the upper level courses are quite small. Some have fewer than ten students.

Each year there seems to be new course openings and this year ecology was the course added. This course started as an extra-curricular organization during the 94-95 school year.

The curriculum as a whole has expanded dramatically in just the past several years. It's no wonder that South Spencer students are on the cutting Edge.

Showing Our Strength . . .

while showing our pride

In physical education
classes,
students not only strengthen their minds, but their bodies as evell.

Frederic Neitchze once said "What does not destroy me makes me strong." Physical education class has yet to destroy any student," It has however, made them both mentally and physically stronger.

As freshmen every student is required to spend at least one semester in P.E. For boys, P.E. is one class where they can get away from the pressures of academics and focus on building their strength.

For girls, however, P.E. is the most dreaded class of the day. It's not the class work-out that causes stress. It's the physical work-out of having to get ready for the next class in only five minutes.

Some girls however, as well as many of the guys, enjoy P.E. so much that they participate in advanced P.E. classes as well.

One advanced P.E student, Jennifer Garrett says, "P.E makes me strong by giving me more discipline and endurance."

Although not everyone enjoys P.E., every student is sure to find at least one activity that they prefer. P.E. classes focus on more than just physical strength alone, but also on mental strengths such as working as a team or building self pride. No matter what the focus, P.E. can make us all a little bit stronger.

Lost For Words?

Not if you're taking speech or a language.

Although they may not always speak in English, students in speech and language classes always have something to say.

Many students enjoy having an English, speech or a foreign language class. It may be hard work, but in these classes students don't get in trouble for talking. In fact, that is what the class is all about - participation.

Participating in class, is no longer simply reading aloud. When studying Edgar Allan Poe's- Dr. Heidegger's Experiment Mrs. Jeannie Logsdon decided to make learning more interesting and fun. In one of her English classes, students performed this play in front of classmates while partaking of nonalcoholic champagne.

Being in front of classmates isn't always easy or fun. It is, however, one thing that every student must learn to do. In Ms. Joyce York's speech classes, students must give up to seven presentations in front of the class.

After getting over stage fright, many students seem to open up in front of others. Some people are natural born speakers. They can tell a story and give such accurate details that you feel you know exactly what they're talking about. When Tammi Piper gave a speech on "her most frightening moment" the entire class sympathized with her, and of course laughed along.

classes
may seem to involve the most work,
the amount you will learn is immeasurable.

Working with computers, adding up numbers, and solving problems, are a few things that students in science classes do every day.

Whether its physical, biological or chemical, science classes prove to be the most challenging for many students. The teachers, however, are in constant search to make learning this abstract information easier. Aside from being challenging, these classes can be interesting and fun, qualities which make it less difficult to stay focused on learning.

In biology, chemistry, and physics classes, students participate in lab studies. Labs are a time to learn by seeing and working hands-on and break the monotony of every day lectures.

In earth science classes, students took their work outside, where Mr. Ray Chamberlain and Mr. Todd Rolen helped the them form a miniature scale of the universe.

Some of the students in ecology classes, also taught by Chamberlain, participated in the Indiana Envirothon contest, where they placed third and qualified for the state.

Never Giving Up...

Just taking time to start over

Sometimes you work and work, until you think you've reached the answer, only to realize that you have to start all over.

Technology is an everchanging field, which is constantly replacing itself. Even though the products of technology are becoming more efficient at an incredibly fast pace, some people manage to keep up.

Senior, Brian Poole, who has taken Computer Programming I and II says, "Computer Programming has upgraded my computer literacy."

For some people, using computers is very much like trying to speak a foreign language. Sometimes, you just don't know where to go next. So, you sit and think for minutes that lead to half hours and you find yourself at the same point where you started. It's like the quote Einstein once gave-" I think and think for months and years.

Ninety-nine times the conclusion is false. The hundredth time I am right."

It's like your parents always say, "Never give up!" If you give up trying, you'll never accomplish anything.

It may be aggravating at times, but there will always be someone there to help you when you need it. All you have to do is ask.

"I think and think for months and years. Minety-nine times the conclusion is false. The hundredth time I am right."

From fine arts to culinary arts students in art and homeec classes are always creating something. They work with their hands and imaginations to create something of which to be very proud.

In art classes the students work on many different projects throughout the year. From working with clay, wood, watercolors or just crayons the students learn to use several different medias. They also are introduced to different artisits and their contributions to art.

Not all home-ec classes are just about learning how to cook. In Foods I and II students also learned about traditional foods of other countries. In child development classes students work in local pre-schools and elementary schools. Then they sponsor a pre-school at S.S. during the grading period of the class.

Hitting The Books . . .

with a touch of humor

Choices confront us everday. We have the choice to be miserable or we have the choice not to be. In general, life is much more enjoyable if we choose to smile.

It would be difficult to spend time with Mr. Bill Wood and not crack a smile. He usually starts class by telling students to open their song books or hymnals and then asking if anyone is heading down the porcelain oasis.

Mr. Todd Stoermer is another faculty member who cannot be taken completely serious. He is either terribly uncoordinated or he certainly manages to hit himself with a yardstick quite often.

Another faculty member who can be quite entertaining with a ruler is Mr. Larry Renschler. When he needs to scratch his quadriceps, sticks a ruler down the leg of his pants. If he wants to erase the board and an eraser isn't handy, he just uses his hand and then wipes his hands on his clothes.

Renschler also has several standard stories that keep his classes entertained. Just ask him to do his "Macho Man" or "Mohammed Ali" routine while talking about the 300 pound "go-go girl" or "Fluffy".the cat. Langhter

Sports

Ur school has always been known for its outstanding athletic program. This year has been no exception to our competitive EAGL.

There were many firsts this year in sports. The boys' tennis team had its first winning season. For the first time a cross country runner, Valerie Lashley, and a diver Erika Driskell advanced to the regional. Jason Burns wrestled his way to the PAC finals. The boys' basketball team won its fourth sectional in a row.

The baseball team had the best record of any team in the history of the school. The team only lost two games in regular season play.

The football team finished the season with an overall record of 4-5. They opened the season with a 27-0 win over PAC foe Gibson Southern. The following week the Rebels faced the #1 ranked Tecumseh Braves. Falling short of the victory, 26-14 the team's record went to 1-1.

Aggressiveness helped the Rebels dominate the Chargers with a 33-0 victory. This was the second conference win. The Raiders of Southridge proved no threat as the Rebels easily slid past them with a 42-20 win.

The Rebels met Wood Memorial for Homecoming and easily trounced them 34-14.

The next two weeks the Rebels faced two of their strongest opponents. First, they were blanked by the #3 ranked class 3A Jasper Wildcats 34-0 and then the following week by the North Posey Vikings 27-0.

Following two dismal weeks the county rival, Heritage Hills, made matters worse by defeating the Rebels 34-14.

For the sectional, the Rebels drew a strong foe and big P.A.C. rival, the North Posey Vikings. The Rebels put forth their best effort but fell short of the win. They lost 27-6 to end their season.

Team captains were seniors, Jason Burns and Lance Palmer. These two along with nine other seniors Jason DeWeese, Aaron Goffinet, Aaron Hill, Nathaniel Lauer, Scott Payne, Chad Sawyer, Tim Stafford, Todd Van Meter, and Chris Wirthwein led the Rebels for the year.

Through all of their wins and losses, the volleyball team still has ...

Many people think the Lady Rebel volleyball team began its season August 22 when they played their first game. For the players though, the season began during the summer, sometime in July.

Practices were held at the Middle School, because a new roof was being put on the high school gym. It was not until the middle of the season that the team got to play any matches in its own gym

The Rebels didn't start the season off with a very good note. Their first game was played against Boonville. Even though playing them close, the Rebels couldn't pull out the win. The turn of the season came when they played Tecumseh. After that, they had a three game winning streak. The team kept improving their game and were ready to face Castle in the sectional. The Lady Rebels played hard, but came up short.

The Rebels record did not show very much improvement from last year, but statistically they did improve. As a team, they broke three records: most attacks-1,213, most serves-1,111, and most points-567.

Individually, nine records were broken. Julie Butcher broke six records: best serve percentage in a season-95.3%, most sets in career-561, most sets in game-33, most assists in a game-15, most assists in a career-333, and career matches played-79 out of 79. Amy Sitzman broke two records: most attacks in a career-802, and she tied with Kim Small for the most digs in a match-6. Kim Small also got the record for most digs in a season with 6.

The Rebels also had a few girls to receive other honors. Amy Sitzman was the fifth person at South Spencer to be selected as All P.A.C. Amy Sitzman and Julie Butcher were named P.A.C. Academic Scholar Athletes.

The Lady Rebels finished their season with a 9-20 record.

Cross Country

It's hot; it's hard work; it's tough getting participants; it's cross country. It requires a dedicated individual to run cross country. Sophomore Valerie Lashley has been on the team for two years. This year she set a new course record of 15:45. Junior Jimmy Girten also set a course record of 17:08.

Coaching the team for the first time was Cary Conner. Conner, a Heritage Hills graduate, enjoys distance running. He has run in the Boston Marathon and placed third in the Ellis Park Marathon.

Helping Conner was Nancy McIntyre. Though Conner knows a team victory is impossible, he strives to get a 100% from each runner.

Golf

Like cross country golf is both an individual and a team sport. The golf team only sported one senior, Brian Jessee who played in the number one spot. Jessee showed his skill by turning in the lowest score, a 77, in the PAC conference meet. The young team as a whole shot a 341 and earned second in the conference.

Then to the delight of all concerned the team scored third in the sectional and advanced to the regional. Coach Alstadt knew things looked good as his players started turning in their scores. As each player finished he realilzed they would be advancing. They ended with their best score of the season, a 333.

Boys' Tennis

In the five years since the school has had a tennis team, this is the first winning season, with 8 wins and 5 losses.

In the sectional, the team as a whole lost to Forest Park, but the doubles team of Holt Hedrick and Matt Chapman advanced to the final round of the Regional.

Senior, Jeremy Abshier said, "This was by far the best tennis team we have had at South Spencer. The season was a nice change of pace, now that we are winning."

Coach Todd Stoermer's goal for the year was to have a winning season and to advance further in the sectional than before. Girls' Tennis

The girls' team experienced another change of coaches this spring, as Craig Holbrook took over the duties.

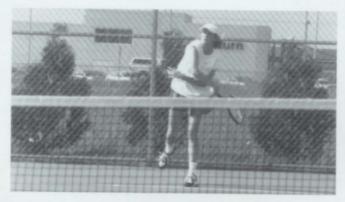

The highlight of the season came with a three game winning streak near the start of the year with victories over Evansville North, Tecumseh, and North Posey.

The team drew Tecumseh in the sectional draw and came out victorious with wins by Kari Youngblood, Sherry Youngblood, Cara Robinson, and Lana Brobotovitch.

Next the girls had to face the state ranked Castle Knights and lost 5-0.

Senior, Kari Youngblood played in the number one singles spot.

Girls' Swim

The girls' swim season started on an optimistic note with 17 girls coming out for the team. This was the first time in years that the team had two divers and enough swimmers to enter the maximum entries in each individual event and relay.

Even though the swimmers only won 2 of 13 meets, there were steady improvements made throughout the year. Hard work and long hours of swimming proved to pay off toward the end of the season, when girls started to swim better times and place higher in meets.

Diving was lifted to great heights as Erika Driskell and Sarah Wilhelmus brought many wins to the team.

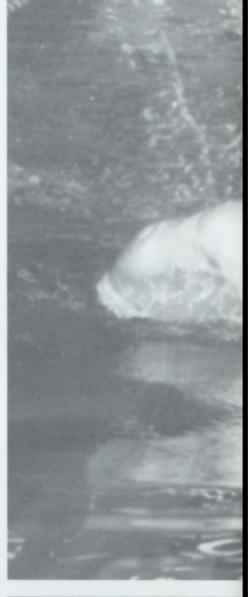

In P.A.C. action, Lori Wright gave the best performance of her season and finished fourth in the 100 freestyle at championships. To add to the excitment, Erika Driskell and Sarah Wilhelmus did an outstanding job in diving. Erika placed 2nd and Sarah took 4th.

In the sectional, only one member of the team advanced out of the tournament. Erika Driskell finished 3rd at the sectional and went on to place 15th in the regional.

Boys' Swim

The boys' swim team only had four participants which made it impossible to compete in every individual event and relay. Also, there was no diving coach, so there could not be any divers. Knowing they wouldn't have a chance to win as a team, the swimmers accomplished much on their own.

In P.A.C.'s each swimmer swam his own personnal best. Patrick Mullican placed 2nd in the 100 fly. At the sectional, the swimmers once again swam their best times. Patrick Mullican again finished in the top with a 6th in the 100 fly.

New and inexperienced players play a key role in Lady Rebels' season, uniting...

The defending sectional champions returned to the floor with a young and optimistic squad. With only two returning lettermen, the Lady Rebels and their coaches had much to prove.

Working hard, playing as a team, and playing within themselves was preached daily by the coaches and was what made the team a success, even though the record did not show it.

The Rebs went 4-15 for the season, beating three conference teams, Southridge, Tecumseh, Pike Central, and out of state foe Owensboro Catholic. The season was also marred by many losses of one, two, or even three points.

Although, it did not come together in four full quarters the season was not measured just on wins and losses. The team had a few individual accomplishments. Erika Driskell broke the school record for freethrow percentage in a game going 10 for 10 and also won the All Systems freethrow trophy with a 69.9% average. Driskell was also, named second team all-conference and Vanessa Virgin and Jill Harris were named Honorable Mention

The team was led by two seniors Vanessa Virgin and Amy Sitzman. Juniors were Erika Driskell, Julie Hoss, Jennifer Garrett, Kim Small, Rebecca Fulks and Cheri Daming. Jennifer Embry was the only sophomore and Jill Harris the only freshman.

This was basically the first time the girls had ever played together as a team. Several had JV experience from the previous year, but overall the team suffered from inexperience in varsity situations.

The most heartbreaking moment of the year came in the final minutes of the final game of the season with a single digit loss to Heritage Hills.

The boys' basketball team has made winning a tradition

SECTIONAL CHAMPIONSHIPS:

IN A ROW

"The Rebels win it! The Rebels win it again!" As the Rebels won their 4th Boonville sectional in a row, this was the cry of many people. Winning is quite a tradition for the Rebels. This year, they were expected to win again and that's just what they did!

With only two returning varsity players, the boys' team had a definite task ahead of them. According to Coach Roger Guth, "You don't have to have the most talented team to accomplish your goals, if you have the desire to win."

Six seniors along with one sophomore and one freshman accomplished the expected.

Not only did the Rebels have a record of 16-7, but they also scored their 400th win in school history. Going into the regular season, the boys only needed three wins to capture this feat. They accomplished their victory against the Tecumseh Braves 62-48.

In conference play the Rebels compiled a 5-2 record, only losing to the Chargers of Pike Central and county rival Heritage Hills Patriots.

"Winning the sectional my senior year was the highlight of fouryears of basketball." Ron Yearby

Once again in the sectional, South Spencer was the favorite, but it wasn't an easy road to the title. For the first game the Rebels were paired with the Tecumseh Braves. They slipped past with a 57-56 win to advance to the championship game. The Gibson Southern Titans had their 15 game win streak ended as the Rebels went on to win their fourth straight sectional by a score of 50-49.

The Rebels' season quickly came to an end as their toughest opponent, the Vincennes Lincoln Alices, beat them in the first round of regional play.

Two teammates were nominated to the McDonald's All-American Team, Josh Garrett and Kevin Davis.

Josh Garrett represented the Rebels in the annual East-West All-Star game, where he scored a total of fifteen points.

Senior, Josh Garrett shoots his way to a 1,000 point total accomplished in his four years as a starting varsity player. In the history of Spencer County, only seven people have accomplished this goal.

The wrestlers had to overcome many obstacles. They had no home meets, because the school has no facility for them, and they had to practice in the commons, which is not designed for wrestling, but the team made do.

With only 5 wins and 27 losses on the season, most people wouldn't have much faith in the wrestling team, but to the young men who come out and gave their heart to the sport, it was a very big deal.

Wrestling has not generated much enthusiasm by anyone other than the parents of the kids who are in it. Despite the lack of fans the wrestlers exhibited individual dedication.

The wrestling Rebels were led by seniors Jason Burns and Lance Palmer, who set positive examples, in practice and in meets, and gave underclassmen someone to look up to.

Everyday the team praticed hard in hopes of making themselves and the season a success.

The work paid off for all the wrestlers. Coach Tom Packer said, "This was a really good team. Without a series of illness during the mid season, we could have won 4-6 more meets." Even though the team only won 5 meets there were many accomplishments on the year.

At the P.A.C. tournament Jason Burns brought home a 2nd and became the first wrestler ever to make it to the finals. Also, Lance Palmer finished 3rd in the 189 weight class and Kevin Geer placed 4th in the 130 weight class.

At the sectional, Lance Palmer became the third wrestler to advance and compete in the regional at Castle. He was able to do this because he injured the runner-up at the sectional and that wrestler was unable to wrestle.

Adam Hall, Lance Palmer, and B.J. Lantrip ended the year with 3rd, and Kevin Geer, Rob Burrows, Ike Stewart, and Jason Burns finished the season with 4th's

Some athletes peak at the right time and that's exactly what happened to Jason E. Blair who finished 8th in the state pole vaulting competition. Blair broke the long standing school record set by Steve Sanders of 13' 9" earlier in the season when he vaulted at 13' 10".

In the state finals he successfully cleared 14'. As the season came to an end, Blair's performances kept improving. He was third in the P.A.C., second in the sectional, and second in the regional. Then in the state finals he turned in his best vault and defeated both vaulters who had beaten him in the sectional and regional.

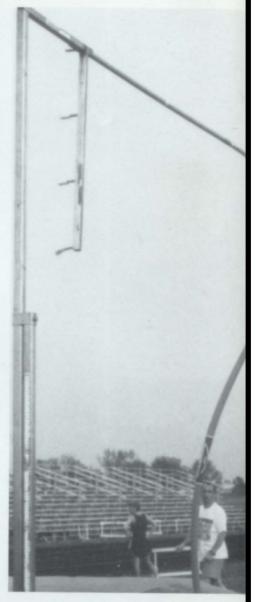

Jimmy Tooley also did well in tournament competition. He placed first in the P.A.C. and fifth in the regional. Tooley also played on the varsity baseball team. Jeremy Deeg qualified for the sectional, but did not make it to the regional.

Throughout the season Tony Parsley turned in a first place finish in the 800, as did Eric Mead in the 200 dash. Jason DeWeese earned first in the discus and so did the 400 relay team consisting of DeWeese, Jason Blair, Eric Mead, and Aaron Goffinet.

For the girls Amanda Latherly advanced farther than anyone else on the team, by winning in the sectional. Latherly led the team throughout the spring by turning in good finishes in the 100 dash. The team's distance runner Valerie Lashley remained competitive in all the meets. Both the girls and boys team did not have the numbers needed for winning a meet.

Many of the meets were postponed because of the very wet spring. Then when the weather did break schedules became extremely hectic. Many of the athletes had jobs and played on other teams. Most days athletes did not know when they left for school if they would be competing that night.

Cheerleading is a year-round sport and takes hours of time and dedication. From late spring until the end of basketball season, the cheerleaders work hard to promote school spirit.

The season starts in April and continues until the following March. In April girls have to learn required yells and audition for the following year. Then as soon as try-outs are over, cheerleaders begin to raise money by working in the concession stands at softball and baseball games.

Then over the summer they practice for and attend cheer camp at Depauw University in Greencastle, Indiana.

In August, the cheerleaders host a camp of their own, which is another fund raiser. This camp, also, helps prepare younger girls to become cheerleaders.

When school opens in the fall, then the hours of work really start to soar. The cheerleaders put in about ten to twenty hours a week decorating the halls, planning pep rallies, practicing, and going to games. As the saying goes, "The difference between cheerleading and all other sports is -NO TIME OUTS!"

The year began with four wins. The Rebels demolished two P.A.C. teams, North Posey and Tecumseh, and shut out a top rated New Albany team 4-0. They then knocked off the Boonville Pioneers by beating them 6-2.

Then the season hit a sour spot with a huge loss to the 15th ranked Harrison Warriors and then another one to the reigning regional champs the Reitz Panthers. The Panthers ended the Rebel season last year in the final game of the regional.

Next, the Rebels faced the Titans of Gibson Southern and slid past them easily, but lost a heartbreaker to the Princeton Tigers.

The Carmi Invitational was the next feat. The Rebels easily defended their title. They first battled with Carmi to get into the championship game and then defeated the Memorial Tigers to win the tournament for the second year in a row.

After the big win at Carmi, the Rebels competed against state ranked Shakamak, a team which had gone to the semi-state three years in a row. However, the Rebels were outscored by the Lakers. After playing Shakamak the girls played the number thirteenth ranked Evansville North Huskies. They easily rolled over the Huskies with a score of 4-1. They followed that by a win against the Southridge Raiders, but were unable to make it three in a row when they fell to the Trojans of Wood Memorial.

Next came the Castle tourney. The Rebels won their first game against the Bears and then lost to the hometeam of the Knights.

The overall schedule for the softball team had a new look this season. Some teams with state wide recognition were added to the line-up. Also, South Spencer established its own eight team tourney; however, because of rain the tournament could never be played.

In fact rain had a big impact on the season. Many games had to be rescheduled, which caused a busy last two weeks of the school year.

In the sectional the Rebels drew the bye and then had to face Boonville in the second round. The Rebels had defeated them early in the year, but history was not to repeat itself. It was a hard fought battle, but the Rebels came up on the short end of the contest losing by a score of 2-0. This closed their season with a score of 13-8.

To be successful a baseball team has to have a strong pitching roster, coupled with strong hitting. South Spencer was blessed with both. The team was ranked high in the state polls throughout the season and finished the regular season with the best record in the history of the school. They suffered only two losses, neither of which were by conference opponents.

Josh Garrett, Kevin Davis, Jon DeFur and Kris Goffinet comprised one of the best high school pitching staffs about which a coach could dream. Added to that, the team as a whole had a batting average of over 300. Throughout the year the team was being scouted with representatives from the major leagues. The scouts would come to see Josh Garret pitch and then realize we weren't a one player team.

Winning the conference was a major highlight of the regular season, as was solidly defeating Jasper by eleven runs.

The end of the season became extremely hectic and high profile. The Rebels repeated their sectional conquest, but then fell to the Evansville Memorial Tigers in the opening round of the regional.

The Tigers were hungry for a chance to defeat the highly praised Rebels and to steal some of the media coverage. Their chance came on a rainy Saturday.

As it has been said many times before, going to a small school has its advantages. Whereas, it also provides many disadvantages.

In small schools you see more tight knit friendships, many of which will last a lifetime. Having many friends at school makes attending more enjoyable.

Another advantage is that every one is familiar with everyone else. Seldom do you walk down the hall and wonder who those people are who just passed you.

On the down side, problems can also arise from everyone being so familiar with everyone else. People can know a little too much about their classmates.

Many of us, however, agree that it's better to be known a little too well than not be known at all. Being part of a small school gives a sense of being a part of a great big family. All in all, we've got the Elge.

Weekends...The best part of the week...the END! According to the juniors, weekends consist of dates, spending money, and best of all, parties.

Sitting around the house just doesn't get it with most teens. Chasity Embry, Doris Shulte, Josh Gruzard, and Emily Seitz say they would rather be anywhere but home with their parents.

Matt Wroe, on the other hand, says he likes to spend his week snuggling up by the fire with a good book.

Jeff Joiner, Scott Morgan, Christina Heminokekey, and Aleisha Duncan enjoy spending time with their friends.

Nick Kirchgessner, B.J. Lantrip, Stephanie Birchler, and Jarod Romans all like spending the weekend partying.

What time does the weekend come to an end? The answer to that varies. Jeremy Eble, Jimmy Tooley, Julie Biggs, and Ashlee Hancock all claim to have to be home by midnight.

What happens if you don't get home on time? Melissa Smith insists she doesn't dare miss curfew, because she gets locked in the basement with the rats.

ACK EM' UP! Bobby Hagerty spends his weekends practicing his pool.

What thoughts come to a sixteen-year-old's mind when he or she thinks about driving? Freedom, fear, and fun.

Even though driving is fun, it is sometimes scary, especially when you see red flashing lights in your mirror. Krissy Dickenson, Clint Wetherill, and Christy Siddons all say the best way to get out of a ticket is to "lose him" on a backroad.

Holt Hedrick says the only thing you can do is hope it is Jerry Wroe.

The most popular strategy according to Melissa Smith, Doris Schulte, Heather Dragoo, Brooke Singer, Lori Haines, Gretchen Bunner, Valarie Bryant, Mary Louden, and Jeremy Eble is just to crv.

For the most part the scariest driving experience juniors have to deal with is riding with their fellow classmates. Scott Morgan finds just watching Jenny Sullivan driving a car to be a frightening adventure.

Jenny's scariest driving experience was running a stop sign, getting hit by a car, and running into a parked bulldozer, all at the same time.

HECK IT OUT! Cheri Daming is amazed at what can be found in a limo.

What does a girl do when her boyfriend gives her advice that she just recently read in her favorite magazine?

Well, the junior class boys are well ahead of us girls on giving love advice. All this knowledge comes from all that extra time spent reading YM, Cosmo, and Seventeen.

Kevin Harvey, Jeff Joiner, Brian Coomes, and Eric Mead all enjoy reading the swimsuit issues provided by YM. Jimmy Tooley, Jeremy Eble, and Kam Cron just love the embarrassing moments.

What is it that these boys find so interesting about girls' magazines? Clint Wetherill claims that he gets some of his best romantic ideas from these magazines. Kevin Thorpe admits that he can relate to the problems he reads about in Sassy.

Adam Broeker, a devout Cosmo reader, says he doesn't know how he could make it through the month without his Cosmo. Of course not all guys read these magazines for the articles. Zack Shelton and Jeff Wood say they just like to "check out the girls."

Each year, the Indiana Department of Education looks at whether a school complies with standards and succesfully completes the school improvement planning process. A panel is assigned to review the schools that did not meet the standards.

We were assigned to be evaluated by the P.B.A. The Public Based Accredidation team visited our school on January 29th and 30th.

They observed and evaluated the caliber of learning, and offered suggestions and criticisms on how to make our school able to meet standards.

One of the main reasons we did not meet regulations is because of the 1996 sophomores' ISTEP test from the previous year. We were reported as coming in 333 place out of 364 schools. It was said that 54% of the total ISTEP scores were scored wrong. However, there was no way of knowing which schools recieved false scores.

At the end of the two day inspection visit, the members of the team met with the entire teaching staff. In the end, we did receive full acredidation. HO CARES?

Unfortunately, for nearly everyone the most memorable moments are always the ones we would like to forget.

Trying to forget ENERGESINE moments

Embarrassing moments happen everywhere to everyone. Most of them happen at the worst possible times. It seems that when you're really trying to impress someone, something always seems to happen.

Take for instance Audrey Armes. She will never forget when she had her pants pulled down while walking with a guy she liked.

Then there was the time Brandi Everard was trying to impress a cute guy in Florida by jumping over a sewage ditch. In the process she actually fell into the ditch.

Even when we're in school, we tend to embarrass ourselves. Tasheika Shaw was giving a speech in earth science class and much to her dismay found herself stuttering.

Brigette Rust won't forget walking out of the restroom in 5th grade with a stream of toilet paper clinging to her shoe.

Sometimes embarrassing moments aren't too life threatening. Andy Driskell remembers his most embarrassing moment was watching Corey Carpenter bowl.

We all have embarrassing moments that we can easily recover from. It's just trying to forget them, that is the hard part.

Experiencing

CHANGES every day

Changes! One of the biggest changes a student ever has to make is the transition from middle school to high school. A person goes from being the oldest and the most courageous to being the youngest and the most timid.

The first day in high school is always the hardest, because you don't know what to expect. Andrea Payne says, "The worst fear of coming to high school was that I would make a fool of myself in front of a group of people I didn't know." High school and middle school are different in many ways.

Meredith Ruark points out one of the biggest differences, "There are more good looking people here." Missy White says, "The teachers expect more out of you and everyone is more mature."

Knowing that there will be so many changes to face in high school can make a person somewhat fearful. The biggest fear of coming to high school for Melanie Ludwig was that she wouldn't know where anything was.

Being a freshman isn't that bad. It is a big change, but you get use to it. After a while everything becomes routine.

OWN WITH THE WALL. In the summer of '95 the number one fear of freshmen was demolished, when the dreaded library wall was torn down.

Getting involved in

REBELPRIDE

Do freshmen have school spirit? It seems that some do and some don't. As in all other things around school it takes awhile for freshmen to get with the program.

Actually, a great many of them want to show their spirit, but they are just intimidated by upperclassmen.

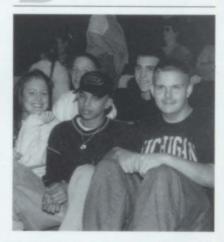

It's easy to be shy if you ever get put down for showing school spirit. Unfortunately, there are negative-minded upper classmen who like to bash freshmen for being enthusiastic.

If the freshmen hang around with kids who get involved and cheer at games, then they get involved. Once they develop a mind for themselves and realize getting involved can be fun, then spirit comes easily.

By the time the boys' basketball team made it to the championship game of the sectional the freshmen finally seemed to have school spirit.

However, it took them most of the week to get the idea. The second day of the week was poster day and the freshmen came in dead last, but as the week continued they seemed to become more and more involved. ASKETBALL BACKERS!

More than

Meets the eye

Althoughit may not be known, many students wear contact lenses. They seem to be the clear choice for several reasons.

One of the main reasons contacts are chosen over glasses is appearance. Many students including Jessica Obermier, Kim Thorp, Amanda Turner, and Nicole Kinnman say that glasses make them look stupid. Other students just don't like the hassle of having glasses.

Beckey Kellems and Jared Maddox say glasses are a pain. Sarah Wilhelmus, chose contacts because she is in athletics. Stephanie Beard loves her contacts, because to her glasses are just uncomfortable.

On the other hand, many students prefer glasses. Rachel Hoofer chose glasses, because she thinks they make her look more attractive. Mr. Metzger chose glasses because he would rather not have to stick his finger in his eye every morning.

It's clear to see, that when it comes to choosing between glasses and contacts there's more than what meets the eye. Because there are so many pros and cons for each, it's up to the student to decide what is the clearer choice for them.

RAMIN'ARAIR

For many of our staff members teaching appears to be a family affair. It seems that social studies instructor, Mr. Neal Thomas's family tree has teachers on every branch. His grandfather, grandmother, and mother were all teachers and three of his four children hold a teaching license.

Mr. Cevin Collins, counselor, also grew up in a family of educators. Both of his parents were teachers, so his family life as a child revolved around school events and ballgames.

Todd Stoermer and Steve Alstadt both had fathers who were teachers and coaches. Stoermer did not go into teaching directly after college, but after a few years in the banking field, decided to follow in his father Bob's footsteps and become a social studies teacher.

English teacher, Jeanne Logsdon's daughter Jill decided teaching must be an okay profession, because she just graduated from college with a teaching degree.

Math teacher and coach, Roger Guth, also, has an offspring who followed in his footsteps. His son Mike teaches and coaches at Heritage Hills High School.

Art teacher, Greg Sitzman has a son who is attending U.S.I. and majoring in education. Christopher plans to graduate in 1997 and teach physical education. At the present time he is an assistant football coach at Castle High School.

Sandra Sanders teaches biological sciences. Her predecessor was P.M. Sanders, who is also her father-in-law. Her husband Steve is a teacher at the middle school; her mother-in-law Sarah is a retired elementary teacher, and her husband's cousin, student taught for her this past year. Her aunt, Virginia Mattingly, is also a retired business teacher.

ROUD PARENT.

English teacher Jeanne Logsdon has every reason to be proud. Last spring, her daughter Jill May graduated from Indiana State University with a teaching degree in math and computer science.

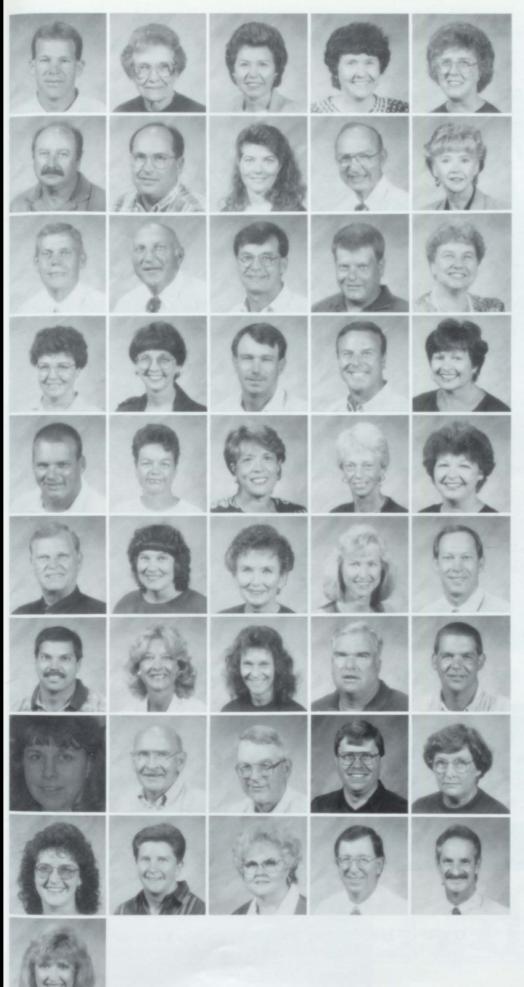

If these two fellows bear a strong resemblance to one another, it's because they are blood relatives. Todd Stoermer has followed in the footsteps of his father Bob. Both played high school and college basketball and then returned to Rockport to teach social studies and to coach.

BRANCE SCHOOL SCHOOL SCHOOL The fall of 1997 is the target

The first shovel of dirt being taken from the ground is only a symbolic beginning of building a school. The real ground work for the process began at least four years ago when committees were first established to discover what facilities in the corporation needed to be expanded, upgraded or replaced.

Each of the four school buildings in the corporation needed attention, but the cost of everything that needed to be done to the middle school was extremely high. Adding to the cost problem was the problem of not enough land. The most cost effective solution to all the problems of the middle school was to replace the existing one.

Thus started the tedious and frustrating problem of starting a building program. Plans had to be drawn, funding had to be established, arguing occurred, and finally compromises were reached.

When the plans were eventually finalized, it was decided to place the new 92,500 square foot middle school on a site already owned by the corporation located just north of the high school.

The fall of 1997 is the target date of completion for the project, which is being built by the firm of Veazey, Parrot, and Shoulders for an estimated cost of 9,086,696 dollars.

The new facility will have air conditioning, which the present school does not have. It will also have a larger cafeteria, and a new industrial technology complex. However, the plans do not call for an auditorium.

The location of the building so near the high school will make for better utilization of transportation.

In Memory

Aretha McCormick December 18, 1977 January 21, 1996

Without You It's not the same here without you. But now that you are gone, what do I do? With love I gave you my heart. I wish that we would never go apart. Then the day came and you told me goodbye. I wanted so bad to be alone and cry. I never felt this way about anyone but vou. But now that you are gone what do I do?

gone what do I do?
Just remember deep
in your heart.
I never wanted to be apart.
So remember I love

you still. And deep in my heart I always will.

Looking Back

Josh Farmer gets one last glance at high school while preparing for graduation.

IME TO ...

For many seniors, the worst part of graduating, is having to say goodbye. Often, during the last few months of school year, seniors realize that they have only one last chance to do so many things while they're still in high school.

Although senioritis causes many to fall into the rut of no longer caring enough to get involved in anything having to do with high school, for others, it causes them to get involved in as much as they can, while they still have the chance.

Throughout the year seniors are often busy filling up their memory books with all of the highlights of the past four years. Many find their last day of school, or their last game, etc. to be the saddest memories, but many times, they are also the most rewarding.

One Last Song

After being in band for four years, Kari Youngblood and Cara Robinson play their last song on graduation

The Last Laugh

In the past four years, Jason DeWeese has always seemed to find some way to keep us laughing. During one of the last pep sessions, he attempted to dress in women's clothing during a relay race.
